On Trinity

Last week we celebrated Trinity Sunday. We used as a final prayer a beautiful Triune prayer which is worthy of repeating in this leaflet. It was written by Fr Bob Commin, an Anglican priest serving in the Cape Town diocese. I recently met him here in Pringle Bay and we enjoyed a few hours chatting about spirituality and poetry while savoring a good bottle of wine with our poetry guru Dorian.

I was moved by Bob's deep sense of the mystical.

I rise to this day

In confidence of the Father's protecting me
of the son's love for me
of the Spirit's filling me.

I walk out today

with the Father above me with the Son beside with the Spirit within me.

So as I walk

let the joy of other's touch me
let sorrow not hide from me
let life and death meet with me.

For I rise and walk today

With God the Holy Trinity.

While the Trinity must remain a mystery, these few words of prayer comfort us.

Blessings g
