Dear Saints,

The pew leaflet of last week ended with a quote from Richard Rohr:
"This is the basis for God's justice: Since everyone is made in the image of God, then we need to recognize, honour, and respect the image of God in everyone. No exceptions."

It is a profound statement, worthy of our meditations. Respecting the image of God in everyone has certainly been found wanting over the centuries not least amongst religious people. Rohr who publishes a daily column which is accessible to everyone has the following to say. When reading such in depth spiritual articles, it is unwise to rush through it. Allow your stillness to dampen your busy-ness and let the Spirit speak to you. Sometimes it isn't easy but persevere or find another time. We will take this in small chunks for easy eating!

You (and every other creation of God) begin with your unique divine DNA, an inner destiny as it were, an absolute core that knows the truth about you, a true believer tucked away in the cellar of your being, an imago Dei that begs to be allowed, to be fulfilled, and to show itself. "You were chosen in Christ before the world was made—to stand before God in love—marked out beforehand as fully adopted sons and daughters" (Ephesians 1:4-5). This is your True Self or soul.

Jesus revealed and accepted a paradox: human and divine are not separate, but one! Why do we resist this destiny? For most of us, this seems just too good and too dangerous to be true. There is so much contrary evidence! Are we afraid to bear the burden of divinity? It is precisely the divine part of you that is great enough, deep enough, gracious enough to fully accept the human part of you. If you are merely human, you will tend to reject your embarrassingly limited humanity.

Maybe we realize subconsciously that if we really recognized our True Self—which is the Divine Indwelling, the Holy Spirit within us—if we really believed that we are temples of God (see 1 Corinthians 3:16, 6:19; 2 Corinthians 6:16), then we would have to live up to this incredible dignity, freedom, and love.

Continued next week

Blessings g
