Beautiful saints called and planted by grace in this place, peace be upon you.

This week brought to an end a month worth of celebrating the talent and enthusiasm of our young people. They have brought a new vibrancy to our worship and we thank God for them. Going forward we have agreed that when there are 5 Sundays in a month, this service will be led by our young, talented and beautiful youth. Thank you to each of you for the ministry you are sharing with us as you lead our worship services!

Our reading this morning from Galatians echoed the recessional hymn of last week – encouraging us to focus on the fruits of the Spirit – love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control. As the Spirit is at work in and with and through us, it is the work of this Spirit that brings the fruits we seek. As such they become a good way to assess our growth in the life of virtue. Encouraging us to continue surrendering to the work of the Spirit, and to let go and let God.

As the winter holiday season swings into high-gear this offers a time of relaxation for our young people, and a time of reflection for ourselves. I would like to encourage you to use this time to reflect on your personal commitments to God. How would you like to respond more faithfully to all that God offers us in the covenant we share? How is the Spirit seeking to transform and use you to build up the people of God? What ministry has your life equipped you for and how would you like God to support you in this?

There are many exciting works that God seeks to do in our community of faith and I am enthusiastic about our opportunity to respond and become co-creators with God. Our last parish council identified three pillars of communication & marketing to grow us in the vision God has. Please prayerfully discern how you would like to connect and support these ways of sharing the message of God's love – either through becoming involved in Spirituality, Outreach or Events.

With love and blessings on your week ahead,
Revd. Anastasia
